

Central Planning-based Failures in the USA

The extent of central planning of US industries is poorly understood. Especially with the growing importance of increased economic growth, it is imperative that we document the extent of central planning-based failure, make the public aware of it, and devise ways to eliminate central planning wherever it exists.

Revisit this page, periodically, to observe our progress in this research area. Hopefully, by your next visit, we can announce proposals and requests for proposals for specific industries. Once we have an analysis completed, we will commission a review from a scholar likely to be a basis for civil, informed disagreement, and create conversation forums for further assessment. To be involved in any aspect of the process, e-mail us at: IOPACHief@policytalk.org

Key Reference: Baumol, Litan, and Schramm. 2009. Good Capitalism, Bad Capitalism.